FUNERAL AND BURIAL OF LATE MAJOR R. R. HENRY

Funeral and Burial Last Saturday Afternoon—Beautiful Floral Tribute From Many Friends in Virginia.

The burial of the remains of Maj. R. R. Henry took place last Saturday afternoon in the Jeffersonville cemetery, in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing friends and the stricken family. There was a profusion of flowers, such as is seldom seen on such an occasion, contributed by admiring friends here and elsewhere, lodges and societies. Brief and impressive service was read and all that was mortal of this beloved father, friend and citizen was left to sleep until the resurrection trumpet shall sound.

Following is the list of pall-bearers: Active—R. O. Crockett, T. C. Bowen, A. S. Higginbotham, J. B. Boyer, G. M. St. Clair, H. Claude Fobst, R. S. Graham, H. R. Hawthorne. Honorary—S. C. Graham, J. N. Harman, P. D. Johnston, Henry Preston, J. P. Royall, Geo. W. St. Clair, W. H. Werda, H. G. McCall, J. P. Kroil, A. St. Clair, J. P. Whitman, H. M. Snythe, A. J. Steele, B. W. Strass, J. H. Whitley, Barnes Gillespie, Joe Howard, Wm. Mitchell, H. P. Brittain, Geo. W. Gillespie, Henry Routh, J. C. Turley, J. D. Alexander, H. C. Walker, Jas. P. Strother.

The funeral service was held at the home, conducted by Rev. M. Arwood, of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. W. S. Bullard, of the Christian church.

The service was simple, solemn and appropriate. Mr. Bullard made an appropriate and solemn address, and read a brief biographical address, which is printed below. Undertaker Peery was in charge of the burial ceremonies. Major Henry was laid to rest in his Confederate uniform. In one hand was a flag of the Confederacy. To the cause of his country he gave the best years of his young manhood, the mature years of his age he proclaimed his loyalty to the last. Peace to his ashes!

The Rev. Mr. Bullard, in his funeral address, read the following paper handed him by S. C. Graham, who had been Major Henry's partner since the 4th of July, 1861. This paper, however, was dedicated for the use of Mr. Bullard as a memorandum for his funeral address, with no expectation that it would be published, but is published by consent of Rev. Mr. Bullard and Judge Graham.

R. R. HENRY. R. R. Henry was born in Chester, South Carolina, April 26th, 1845. He was a son of W. D. Henry, who was born at King's Mountain, South Carolina. His mother was Julia Ann, a daughter of John B. Hall, of Frederick county, Virginia. His wife, Lucy Asmy Henry, is a daughter of John Asmy, of Casper county, Va. Mrs. Asmy is a first cousin of Luther Asmy. She was born in Casper county, Va., and they were married in Rappahannock county, Va., on December 19, 1869. There are seven children: John Randolph Henry, Charles Landon Henry, William Byrd Henry, Lucy Asmy Henry, C. S. Henry, Robert Evelyn Henry, Aylette Tucker Henry.

Major Henry studied law in the offices of lawyers and was not educated at a law school. He served through the late war, Company A, 12th Virginia Infantry, C. S. A., and was severely wounded at Burgess' Mill. He was Hancock's elector for the Ninth district of Virginia and was Democratic nominee for Congress in the 9th district in 1886.

Major Henry came from Rappahannock county, Virginia, I think about the year 1871, when he settled in Wise county where he lived until the year 1876 and then moved to Tazewell, serving as Commonwealth's Attorney for term in Wise county. He and I were partners in Buchanan county in the practice of law in the years 1872 and 1873, under the firm name of Graham & Henry. About the year 1876 he came to Tazewell and formed a partnership with Joseph Stras, Jr., and remained a partner of his until the year 1880. Major Henry and S. C. Graham formed a partnership for the practice of law on the 4th day of July, 1881, and continued as partners from that time until the time of Major Henry's death.

Major Henry was a man of splendid intellect. Speaking as a partner, I can say that he was one of the ablest counsellors; and what I mean by this, in private consultations. In all our consultations from the time of our partnership until his last attack of sickness, his whole object seemed to be to reach the truth, the right and justice of every case or engagement that we had. I can truthfully say that I never heard him make an immoral suggestion in all our consultations and business transactions that we had during our whole lives. What I mean by that is: that his whole life, as a practicing lawyer, was high toned, honorable and with a single eye to attain justice in all our engagements at the bar, but never to sacrifice truth or honor to attain an end. He was strictly truthful and, in his heart, a hand who had high moral ideals. He believed in a Divinity. This I know unquestionably, and, while he never made any professions of religion that I ever knew of, yet I know that his whole moral tone relating to honesty and integrity as between man and man, was always gauged by his ideas of accountability to a Divine power. He was no hypocrite in him of any kind. He was open and frank, and had throughout his life the bearing of a brave and honorable man, which

I always thought was engendered and cultivated by his life as a soldier, which, by the way, should never be forgotten in forming an estimate of the life of any man who lived through the time he did. While he was an extremely liberal man in his views, yet he always had a sublime pride in the fact that he had been a Confederate soldier and never faltered in his loyalty to the South and its people and to the cause for which he fought. He was a modest man; but at the same time a man of superb personal courage.

He was a splendid advocate at the bar, sometime rising to real eloquence in the cause of his client. In all my private intercourse with him, in the investigation of the many causes, both criminal and civil, that we conducted through the long time we were partners, I cannot recall a single dishonorable suggestion, or what is commonly called a "short cut" to attain any end. I suppose that if any man knew him, I am, he remained faithful to his ideas of the cause of the Confederacy as long as he lived. He was an ardent veteran and attended most all of the meetings of the Confederate Veterans, and rose to the rank of Brigadier-General Commanding Confederate Veterans.

Major Henry was a great reader, and had an exceedingly retentive memory, often drawing accurate illustrations in his addresses at the bar, from history, and from literature generally. His fort was that of an advocate. However, very few men, during my experience, could express themselves more clearly, and in his oral discussions seized the strong points of the law and of facts of every case. He, in short, in my opinion, was among the best advocates I ever knew.

POUNDING MILL NOTES.

Pounding Mill, Oct. 12.—Mr. Lawrence Craig returned last week from Lynchburg, where he has been visiting relatives and attending the Fair.

Mrs. C. M. Hunter has been on the sick list for a few days. Mrs. John Bourne, of Gratton, passed through town on No. 5 Sunday a. m. on her way to Bondtown to look after her daughter, Miss Mabel, who has typhoid fever. Her case is said to be a mild one, and her relatives and friends here hope for a speedy recovery.

The "Flying Squadron" from Tazewell "hit" this place Sunday in two sections. Mr. J. A. Leslie, of the Clinch Valley News and Rev. Mr. Gollehon, of Tazewell High School, spoke in the morning at 11 o'clock and the Rev. J. N. Harman at 3:30 p. m. The two former spoke at Cedar Bluff in the afternoon at 3 p. m. Mr. Harman spoke in the forenoon at the addresses very much. We spoke of their good speeches at Bandy, but those couldn't touch these with a ten foot pole. They improve all the time. Invite them to your Sunday school and see a good crowd at each meeting.

Rev. Dr. Bullard, of Tazewell, will preach here Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. W. B. Steele spent Friday and Saturday in Tazewell shopping, visiting friends and taking in the Eastern Star banquet, and attended the funeral of Major Henry on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. R. K. Gillespie visited her mother and attended the funeral of Maj. Henry Saturday.

Mr. R. M. Suarks, merchant, and also the superintendent of the Union Sunday School, has been quite sick since Thursday last week with indigestion. He is reported as being some better today and his friends hope for a speedy recovery.

Mr. Robert Ireson, of North Tazewell, was here Sunday with the "Flying Squadron" being the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Steele.

Mrs. H. W. Christian returned the last of the week from Bluefield at Athens, W. Va., and reports her sister, Rev. Nannie B. Osborne, convalescing.

Quite a number from here expect to attend the Children's Day at the Fair Grounds tomorrow.

Clara Lee Hutton has joined her mother in Kentucky and attends the School Children of the County Made Fine Showing Wednesday, When 5,000 Were in Parade—Domestic and Other Departments in Fine Showing.

The Great Tazewell Fair opened Wednesday morning under the most favorable conditions. The weather was just right. If Secretary O'Brien had been given the privilege of selecting the kind of weather needed for such an occasion he could not have improved on it. Not only the finest of weather, but the gait receipts showed the largest first day attendance in recent years. By noon the grounds and buildings were filled. The schools of the county had the right of way. Nearly every school in the county was represented in the big parade, which took place at 11 o'clock. The parade was led by the Graham band and covered the nine race track all the way around. It was estimated conservatively that there were 5,000 children in line. A more beautiful or inspiring parade was never witnessed. Tazewell fathers and mothers and all her citizens looked on with pride, and appreciation. After the parade came the athletic program, the result of which will be given later.

THE SCHOOL EXHIBITION. The school exhibit is, if not the most elaborate, was certainly the finest in quality yet put up. The exhibition of canned goods, preserves, candies, etc., all prepared by the school children, is most highly creditable.

MISS LOUISE EVANS, DIRECTOR. Miss Evans, the efficient principal of the Richlands High School, is the director of the school exhibits, and the display made here is highly creditable to her management, as well as to the skill and industry of the teachers and pupils of the county. The handwork and especially the literary work of the pupils, is the best yet.

THE CANNING CLUB EXHIBIT. The canning club exhibit of Miss Mamie St. Clair is one of the finest ever seen in the county. A more detailed report of this exhibit will be made.

THE DOMESTIC AND ART DEPARTMENTS. The domestic department, Mrs. W. G. O'Brien, Secretary, is by far the best yet. Mrs. O'Brien says it is about five times as large as last year's exhibit.

The Art Department, Miss Jessie O'Keefe, Superintendent, is also up to the standard. Miss O'Keefe and Mrs. W. T. Witten have this delicate work well in hand, and say that the exhibits will far exceed that of last year in every respect.

AGRICULTURAL EXHIBIT. The exhibit in this department is by far the best and largest the Fair has shown. There are over 50 exhibits of corn. The Boone county and the Casey, pure bred varieties of white corn, are running a close second.

There are more than 50 varieties of apples on exhibition. Grapes, pears, etc., are also shown. The farm products, wheat, rye, buckwheat, oats, alfalfa, etc., is highly creditable. This fine exhibit was judged yesterday.

THE FREE LUNCHES. An innovation this year was a free lunch to the school children. The idea originated with some good women, connected with the missionary societies of the churches. The idea was to supply all children not able to buy their dinner. There proved to be about 1,000 free lunches contributed, and, so, the announcement was made that all school children and other children, too, could get lunches free. No hungry children on the Fair grounds Wednesday.

THE ATHLETIC CONTESTS. The games were called at 11:30, and were spirited from the start. The Witten Mills basketball team defeated Tazewell by a score of 14 to 8. The Witten Mills team, under the leadership and management of Prof. G. L. Strong, showed that they had received heavy training and were in fine form.

The Tazewell girls went down in a close contest with Richlands basketball team, the score standing 9 to 8. The Graham base-ball team lost to Richlands in a score of 18 to 2.

RUNNING AND HIGH JUMP. The 100-yard dash was won by Jo. "Nat" Johnson, of Tazewell. The high jump was also won by the same young man.

Tazewell won first in the relay race, with Pocahontas a close second.

The girls and boys were in fine trim, and the games were spirited throughout.

PREMIUMS IN AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.

Following are some of the premiums awarded yesterday in the Agricultural department:

J. S. Crockett, Crockett's Cove, won first premium on ten best ears Boone County Corn.

J. A. Leslie, second on ten best ears Casey.

J. A. Leslie won first and second on sweet corn.

Glenn Dudley, of Graham, 1st on Yellow Leaning; John McGraw, second Common Corn, J. M. Rose, 1st; A. S. Greever, second.

Best ear in the entire show was won by the Casey, grown by J. A. Leslie; also 1st on alfalfa.

P. G. Baugh, 1st on bearded wheat and smooth wheat in sheaf; 2nd on best peck of wheat; 1st on buckwheat and 2nd on best peck oats.

Frank Moss, Burke's Garden, 1st on bearded and smooth wheat.

CONVENTION EXTRAORDINARY.

And the marked feature of the Hiocker convention was a nice departure in the matter of resolutions. These were submitted in open session and adopted seriatim, after a motion to dispense with the usual committee had been offered and withdrawn, on the statement that the resolution had been submitted to Chapman and had received his approval.

The two most important of these declarations—for increased aid to Confederate Veterans, and the necessity for a Senator in accord with the majority of the legislature were approved by acclamation and made a profound impression.

We will probably have no more conventions, but if similar conditions demand others then we'll never again find use for the committee on credentials, "to exclude all opposition to the boss," nor for the committee on resolutions, so long "misused to hogtie the candidate" in the interest of the clique or ring, or interests that desire to use him.

Nothing so strongly recommended the primary system as the "necessity for getting rid of the manipulated conventions of the past."

GRAYDEN PATTY MARRIED.

Rev. G. K. Patty and Miss Ragsdale, of Knoxville, Tenn., were married on the 13th inst. Miss Ragsdale is a graduate of Martha Washington College, and a woman of exceptional accomplishments. Rev. Mr. Patty is a son of Rev. W. M. Patty, and a brother of K. C. Patty, of this town, who was present at the marriage.

After a brief bridal tour Rev. and Mrs. Patty will make their home at McDowell, W. Va., where Mr. Patty has a nice appointment.

STAND BY WHO?

(Adv.) Editor the News:—A communication in the last issue of the News signed by "Temperance Man, Confederate Veteran and Democrat" calls on the voters to stand by Senator Royall for various reasons. The first is that he voted for the temperance bill in the legislature, notwithstanding the fact that the other four Republican Senators voted against it. I ask that the voters do not lose sight of the fact that the deciding vote on the "Enabling Act" was cast by a Democrat, Hon. J. Taylor Ellyson, and that had it not been for this good Democrat the cause would have been lost, or if he had been like four-fifths of the Republican Senators the people would never have had the opportunity to vote on the great question of state wide prohibitions. And the peculiar part about it is that all these Senators were from the Southwest, where the large percentage for prohibition came from.

It is further stated that "it would be a compliment to Senator Royall to return him to the Senate," etc. This is not a day of compliments politically. The people of this great section want more than a "complimentary" Senator to represent this district. A "complimentary" Senator can accomplish about as much as a 22 rifle on the German frontier. Let's send somebody down there who can enter into the deliberations of the body, and get something done for Tazewell, Russell, Buchanan and Dickenson counties—somebody who will "sit on the job" and not let legislation get by that jeopardizes our homes and firesides.

The last paragraph of this article of so-called "Temperance Man, Confederate Veteran and Democrat" is a gross insult to the Confederate Veterans of this great State. It appeals to them to support the candidate of the party that sent forth the armies that ravished their homes in the great war and against which they struggled so valiantly from '61 to '65. And why does it say they should do this? Because Mr. Royall introduced a bill in the legislature to give the Veterans $2.00 a year. How thin is such a plea. The veteran who can be influenced by such stuff must be weaker in intellect than he was in courage. When Mr. Royall comes back home and says he passed a bill for increased pensions, then he might have claim to the thanks and maybe the vote of a veteran. But what is this thing that he did? Why, he introduced a bill. He could safely for campaign purposes have offered one for $1,000 a year, knowing that he could not put a bill through the Senate, being, as he is, a member of the minority party, with no voice in shaping the policy of the State.

If the Confederate soldiers of the county and district want to really vote for a man, who not only is their defender, but whose people have been their defenders, there's nothing left for them to do but vote for J. W. Chapman for the Senate, a gentleman who will represent them, and if it is possible for the Old State to give them relief they can rest assured that he will be on the job, "and will stick to the ship 'till the last gale's ashore" if any measure affecting them is brought up for consideration.

JUSTICE AND RIGHT.

Richlands, Va., October 14.

STAND BY SENATOR ROYALL.

(Advertisement.)

The temperance people of this district owe J. Powell Royall a debt of gratitude that they now have an opportunity to pay.

He worked four years for the great cause of temperance, and by his vote in the Senate of 1914, made possible the passage of the "Enabling Act." He cast the vote that made a tie vote of 19 to 19, and the President of the Senate broke the tie. I understand that the other four Republican Senators voted against the "Enabling Act."

But Royall left his Republican colleagues, and stood for morality and right.

It will be necessary at the next session of the General Assembly to make effective the provisions of the "Enabling Act," and it would be a just and fitting compliment to Senator Royall to give him the honor of making complete and effective that legislation he has so earnestly labored for during his term in the Senate.

The Confederate Veterans also owe Senator Royall a debt of gratitude, for he introduced a bill in the Senate to increase their pensions by paying them $100.00 per year, and payable quarterly. The bill did not pass, but he did his duty, and we owe it to him to return him to the Senate for that reason and he pledges himself, if elected, to introduce the same bill again, and does not believe that any Senator will have the heart to oppose the measure.

Temperance people and Confederate Veterans, vote for the man who stood by you in these matters.

WM. C. HENDRICKS DEAD.

Wm. C. Hendricks, associate editor of the Graham Banner, was found dead at his home in Graham Monday afternoon about 6 o'clock. It is said that death was due to heart failure.

Mr. Hendricks has for a number of years been associated with the various newspapers and printing houses in this town among the printers and newspaper men.

He is survived by his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hendricks, of Graham; three brothers, A. F. Hendricks, of Graham; Thomas H. Hendricks, of Norton; and Jos. P. Hendricks, of Appalachia, and one sister, Mrs. W. C. Smith, of Council Bluffs, Iowa. Interment was made in the cemetery at Graham Wednesday afternoon.

H. G. AND MRS. PEERY CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

Well Known Couple Are at Home to Their Friends on Fiftieth Anniversary of Marriage. Many Congratulations.

Last Saturday afternoon from two to six o'clock a reception was held at the old Peery Mansion in the western suburbs of Tazewell, now the residence of Squire C. T. Peery, the occasion being the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Peery. All through the afternoon the spacious rooms were thronged with the friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Peery, many of the guests coming from outside points. It was perhaps the most largely attended reception of the kind held at Tazewell for years, nearly every family of prominence in the county being represented by one or more members. The ancestors of Mr. and Mrs. Peery were among the first families who settled in Tazewell and the reception was in a way a gathering of the descendants of the Trans-Allegheny pioneers.

It was a delightfully informal occasion, in keeping with the atmosphere of the quaint old fashioned rooms with their open fire places, hand carved mantel pieces and paneled walls, and suggesting the simple hearty hospitality of earlier times. Only members of the family were in the receiving line. Mrs. J. D. Harrison and Mrs. C. T. Peery met the guests at the hall door and Mrs. H. G. Peery, Jr., and Mrs. Nannie Peery Grant ushered them into the main reception room, where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Peery, Chas. T. Peery and Miss Polly Peery, Miss Mary St. Clair and Mrs. R. E. Abode served tea, and in another room Mrs. J. K. Ball had charge of the guest book. Mrs. M. J. Hankins invited the guests to the dining room, of which Miss Nita Peery had charge, assisted by Miss Stevens, Miss Nannie Crockett, Miss Sallie Brittain, Miss Elizabeth St. Clair, Miss Louise Peery, and Miss George Peery. Little Misses Dorothy and Mildred Hankins had charge of the ladies' wraps, and Mr. Clarence Ball looked after the gentlemen. A victrola was hidden at the head of the hall stairway, of which Miss Irene Peery had charge, and throughout the reception the guests had the pleasure of listening to the old melodies which stir the memory "like the remembered tone of a mute lyra."

The rooms were elaborately and beautifully decorated, the scheme being green and gold, with chrysanthemums, ferns and the foliage of native trees predominating. The glow of crackling wood fires from the old fashioned open fire places shimmered against the scarlet and gold of maple and hickory leaves, enhancing the outdoor effect of the scene and adding a last touch of beauty to the scene.

A large number of girlhood and boyhood friends of Mr. and Mrs. Peery were present. Many of them have passed the mark of three score and ten. These, of course, were the special guests of honor, some of whom attended the "infair," which took place in this same house following the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Peery October 9, 1865.

Among the older friends present were Captain and Mrs. John H. Whitely, who will celebrate their golden wedding a few weeks later; Mrs. Sallie Albert Peery, Mrs. Nannie Witten Crockett, Mrs. Mariah Peery, Capt. J. D. Alexander and Mr. Elgin Whitley. The latter had the honor of being the oldest guest present, being in his eighty-sixth year. All of these were youthful friends and companions of Squire and Mrs. Peery.

The wedding of fifty years ago took place at the home of the bride's father, Zachariah Witten, on Blue-stone, in this county. At about the same time the groom's brother, Capt. James S. Peery, (both were just returned from the civil war, being members of the Forty-fifth Virginia Regiment), was married to Miss Mariah Witten, daughter of Colonel Wilk Witten, at her home on Plum Creek. A joint reception or "infair" was held in honor of the young couples at the home of the groom's parents. There were no vehicles in Tazewell at that time, and the wedding parties arrived at the Peery residence in horse carriages.

Squire and Mrs. Peery have spent their lives in Tazewell, on the fine suburban bluegrass estate which was claimed from the wilderness by his forefathers. They are among the chosen, of a chosen people, richly meriting and holding the esteem and friendship of all who know them. Their domestic life has an idyl of congenial companionship, and in civil and social affairs, they have wielded a wide and beneficent influence in this community. There are seven living children, as follows: Squire C. T. Peery, Mrs. J. D. Harrison, Miss Polly Peery, Mrs. J. K. Ball, H. G. Peery, Jr., Mrs. M. J. Hankins, and Mrs. Nannie Grant. There are seventeen grand children and one great grand child.

Will Painter, Joe Coleman, Barnett and doves of other drummers were here during the Fair.
